It's coming around again It's coming full circle
It's coming around again It's coming full circle

I can see what's in you see right through you
Your wall has been broken down
I can see you been wounded
Wondering who would
Leave you with all of these scars
I can see your trying to get it right this time.

It's coming around again It's coming full circle
It's coming around again It's coming full circle
It's coming around again It's coming full circle
It's coming around again It's coming full circle

Looking out a window
Affraid to let go
Your keeping your trouble inside
Wherever you go
It's right behind you
Following you all of your life

I can see your gonna get it right this time

It's coming around again It's coming full circle
It's coming around again It's coming full circle
It's coming around again It's coming full circle
It's coming around again It's coming full circle

You might want to You might want to open your eyes
Cause it's different each time
You might want to You might want to close your eyes
Cause it's different each time

It's coming around again It's coming full circle
It's coming around again It's coming full circle
It's coming around again It's coming full circle
It's coming around again It's coming full circle
(I would know)
