A dark wave through life
I found my weakness and got flushed away
A filthy ride beyond the burning light
So intense that it almost took my eyes

Paranoid by all the whispers
Deaf by all the shouting voices
The dark withing life, ah it took me
But a hope from another horizon
Pound the rest of what was left of me

Sunset in the east
And the shadow of the moon are watching
Another loop in a circle of old footprints
The darkest night of them all arrives
What on earth is about to come?

Soon to be carried by wings, a longing
Walk with the wind - it will soon embrace us
