I lay myself down to avoid the darkest pits of hell. I lay myself down tonight and enter myself. In a slumber that cover the years, I lay down without regret.. I lay down without mourning my lost. In a slumber that cover the years I enter what i once saw. To see the other realm, and taste the naked sin and again I listen to the whispers of demons, I touched the Devil once Covered well, hidden deeply Untouchable, mysteriously

The crawling mass, summoned as one. Longing for the undreamt dream. Tears of despair filling up a thirsty void. A blessing came, went through than floated away..
