[Chorus: Karima Kibble (Lil iROCC)]

No tears from your eyes (hold on, be strong, it won't be long) after the storm the sun will shine (everything is gonna be alright)

[Verse 1]

What up shorty, I know you tryin' to do the best that you can better days are on the way if you continue to stand see we all make mistakes we wish we could change and sometimes a lesson learned is a lesson with pain that's how life is there's good times and bad but most times the outcome is really up to you the decisions you make now determine your fate and if you give up now you see it weakens your faith so even the storm comes with pouring rain through the clouds the sun shines no more tears of pain

[Chorus 2x]

[Verse 2]

What up fam, I know you're doing your thing but on the real man the game is not what it seems I know you got dreams but this is not the way to attempt them you got a better destiny waiting for to just claim slow down, be cool, and don't act ill I came to have a good conversation and chill wit you I know I ain't your daddy and I ain't trying to be I'm trying to be a real friend to get you to see that even though the storms come with the pouring rain through the clouds the sun shines no more tears of

[Chorus 2x]

[Verse 3]

the last verse is dedicated to someone right now who lost a love one someway, somehow I know you asking God why did he have to take that special person out of your life but if you think about it this way maybe now they're in a better place to be watching over you and me I know it's hard to try and try be strong but you gotta be and there's so much life to live on maybe you heard it all before but the truth the truth even if it's coming out of the mouth of a youth I'm just trying to bring hope however I can and I won't let my age be despised by any man cuz even though the storm comes with the pouring rain through the clouds the sun shines no more tears of

[Chorus 3x]
