When you look into the mirror in the morning do you recognize who you see When I look into the mirror in the morning I don't see anything
What happens when the sun don't rise and the birdies don't wana sing
And even the flowers of the day die and then they stink and then they shrink
And even the friend of mine says the shrink might work and I was thinking bout clearing my mind but im afraid it might hurt
And just when it seem that I got the hole world at my door
The bell ring and I open up with a bang

Im ready for the world im ready for you girl
Im ready for the world im ready for you girl
Im ready for whatever for now and forever
Im ready for whatever for now and forever
Im ready for the worlld the the the world
Im ready for the worlld the the the world

Way til they gget a load of me

Sicoti my pilot left the air craft Good weed like im smoking on some tear gas

Starin at the walls of the room figurin out how to get out And theres no window to escape your mental drought
