"Dead Yesterday"

Visit "Dead Yesterday" on MotoLyrics.com

Mother of my chained divinity
Woe upon earth's vain fertility
What sun arose to give me birth?
Had I not a choice?

For you have burdened me with life
Thus I have burdened man
What sun arose to give me birth?
Had I not a choice?

Yesterday, dead yesterday
I have paid such a toll just to walk in the shadows...
And with your death, you conceived me deathless
Shall you return with tomorrow
...and wake with life's second dawn and that I may erase your clinging memory from this earth

Through my yesterdays in exile consumed
I died at childbirth to visit her womb.
With slumbering eyes, had they been mine
From a weary heart... I'm banished from time
