

Linda Davis"Gold {from Camille Claudel}"

Visit "Gold {from Camille Claudel}" on MotoLyrics.com

I wonder if when all is done
Anyone heard my voice
But from the start, we have no choice
Our journeys just begin
I'll never know if I was right
Did I fight hard enough?
Or when the battles grew to rough
Should I have given in?
But here I stand and swear to you
I did the best that I could do
I know my voice was just a whisper
But someone may have heard
There were nights the moon above me stirred
And let me grab a hold
My hands have touched the gold
My heart's been driven by extremes
Blind with dreams, tight with fear
But still, God knows I was here
And oh, I was alive! And now I lay the past to rest
For in the end I did my best
You have to live the life you're given
And never close your eyes!
You hold on and stare into the skies
And burn against the cold
For any moment you might find the gold!
And there was joy through it all
And I am standing tall
And though my voice was just a whisper
Someone must have heard!
There were nights the moon above me stirred
And let my life take hold
I rode across that sky
And once I touched the gold!

Visit Linda Davis page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.