Sunset trumpeting the end of day
Storm clouds wrap the summer up in gray
But in the springtime of the year
We began a love that will remain evergreen
Through the seasons of the year

Autumn splashes colored leaves upon the ground
Lightning flashes with the skies above the town
But in the springtime of the year
We began a love that will remain evergreen
Through the seasons of the years

The seasons change
And all but the strongest die
Those few remain
And so will you and I

Oh, snow fall, love the first one of the year
We'll see them all and we'll stand together here
For in the springtime of the year
We began a love that will remain evergreen
Through the seasons of the year
