When are you gonna find the time to take a look around
To find the things that make you smile, the things that bring you down

You can tell by the way you're drinking that it's not just a passing thirst
I can tell by the way I'm thinking any more pressure's gonna make you burst
So I don't mind it coming to an end Cause this little thing's gonna drive me round the bend

How many junctions do you have to choose from How many knackered places must you see Before you brain collects the notion that it's going on too long
It would be better if you cut it clean

You shouldn't mind it coming to an end Cause this little thing's gonna drive you round the bend

When are you gonna find the time to take a look
To find the things that make you smile, the things that bring you down

When are you gonna find the time to take a look
To find the things that make you smile, the things that bring you down

I felt like I just couldn't go on maybe give it all up for good That feeling only lasts for so long then it gets back to feeling good

I don't mind it coming to an end
Why should I
So you shouldn't mind it coming to an end

When are you gonna find the time to take a look

To find the things that make you smile, the things that bring you down
When are you gonna find the time to take a look
To find the things that make you smile, the things that bring you down
The things that bring you down, the things that bring you down
The things that bring you down, the things that bring you down
