Sprinkle patterns in your daydreams
The world seems so much brighter
You've only seen them once or twice
But you wonder what's inside them

Your dream could come true
You know, just test the water
Before you heave your boots and go
You better think this over

God bets you leave them, God bets you lie
God bets you never get another chance, God knows
why
God bets you leave them, God bets you lie
God bets you never get another chance, God knows
why

Your mind is full of ifs and maybes
You don't know which way to go
You're falling down and standing up
But you're not going home

Your dream could come true
You know, just test the water
Before you heave your boots and go
You better

God bets you leave them, God bets you lie
God bets you never get another chance, God knows
why

There's a place where everyone is difficult
It's a human downfall we are guilty of It's the things inside us that are typical
God knows why

God knows why
God knows why you kill
You kill
