Despite the past and what's taken place
You bring back the notion of a master race
This years you've preached, the children you teach Pushing for a world of hate and moral breach

Your mind is blind, I just can't relate
You block out the truth when you focus on hate
I hope that you can change and learn you're wrong about this life
No tolerance for racial strife

Get the fuck away from me
I'm sick of your desperate pleas
Please try and come back to the sane
And stop using race to blame

Despite the scars left by hate
You push the wave of racism and hope it's gonna break
You've learned bullshit for such a long time
The disease has spread and now you won't change your mind

Let me tell you something that I hope you can grasp
Your delusions of grandeur, they will not last
And you'll soon understand the truth about this life
No tolerance for racial strife

Get the fuck away from me
I'm sick of your desperate pleas
Please try and come back to the sane
And stop using race to blame
Get the fuck away from me and stop using race
