(Jay Alanski/Jacques Duvall) adaptation anglaise Ron Mael/Russell Mael

Sometimes I wake up in the morning, think I just cannot go on
I'd rather pull the blankets over me and sleep another day
But as I toss and turn I see, what's staring right into my eyes
My closet gives me strength to live another day, another day

Clothes, yeah, I love the haute couture Clothes, they make me so mature Clothes, they are worn most everywhere
Clothes, they can hide an ugly face

Some don't like them if they're bright, Polyester is allright
And be sure the label shows, it really makes the clothes

Clothes, they cover all you got Clothes, they keep you cold and hot Clothes, the designer tells no lies Clothes, they attract the handsome guys

The spring collection's fine, today I'm buying mine
And if the label shows, I surely love the clothes

Clothes, woo oo oo oo
Clothes, woo oo oo oo

I start my own boutique, I think my day's trÃ©s chic
And if my label shows, I sell a lot of clothes.
