"Killing Your Grace"

There's a reason why I left this place
There's a reason why I have to look away
It's written all over my face
You can't let these superstitions define you
So shake it off and shine it on

I'll wait forever
Is forever long enough
Let me see your hands
Both of them
Let me see your hands

Some day your going to wake up
Somewhere so much
Where angels only dare to sleep
I hope you find your own way out of this mess
Some way some how

Don't look don't Look this way
There's nothing left for us to see here
These crooks and cabarets
I shouldn't be the death of us dear

Oh kill your grace
Just one moment
We can't pretend like this isn't getting out of hand
I'm counting hours in between these places
And it's becoming a problem
(Time passes by)
I can't believe that it finally got the best of me
I start to notice that your face is changing
(Time passes by)

I'll wait forever
Is forever long enough
Let me see your hands
Both of them
Let me see your hands

There's a reason I left this place
There's a reason why I have to turn away

It's written all over my face
I hope you find your way out of this mess
