It seems to me the world takes one step forward and two behind
Nobody willing to change always oh so slow to redefine Contemplate the future tell me which path time will follow
You believe your utopia is dead change the course of life with your own hand instead Finally it comes bring your enemies to justice harness calamity and thrust it when you Pull the trigger like it's meaningless life doesn't make any Senseless violence bombs exploding in the distance
The resistance
In the end we will make it O.K.
In the end we will make it O.K.
Good will prevail over transgressions
How we get there is the only question Raised as a compassionate and understanding human being Looking all around you try to figure out just what it means Unified by hatred feed them anything and they will swallow
The things we see everyday leave us feeling so completely hollow Good or bad we continue on regardless constant wondering how far this could really go I can only hope that one day we'll be enlightened Put an end to all the frightened when we realize that there's another way where the innocent won't have to pay for liberty the human race exists in peace well don't I have a right to?
Precious gift precious gift and we throw it away Good will prevail good will prevail over needless transgressions In the end
in the end we will make it O.K.
How we get there
how we get there is the only question
How we get there is the only question

how we get there is the only question
