Tonight we will find our way out,
This operation runs much deeper than you know,
This time were taking it over.

You speak daggers,
Carefully crafted calumny,
With words like weapons,
The ticking cadence of our heart beats,
We can't afford to settle down,
We won't slow down,
We have to set aside all minor setbacks,
Until your words reach me I'm counting on my fingers.

Tonight we will find our way out,
This operation runs much deeper than you know,
This time were taking it over.

These hands built the ground that you walk on,
With every step you leave impressions too small to see,
Consider this a lesson learned,
I should have known you'd only try to bring me down.
We have to set aside all minor setbacks,
Until your words reach me I'm counting on my fingers.

Tonight we'll find our way,
Do you have the strength to Put your pride on the line and
Swallow it whole?
