Lost in the faces, part of the street, half empty pockets and draggin your feet the man with the answers, gives you a rise half way to heaven you don't ask the price

Now you have what it takes to be famous you're wiser you know the road that you're taking a little more to get you started halfway through the sea your parted you're breathing-believing

Nothing's free, he's got you through the veil of sadness nothing's free, and put you on the road to madness no deal, opened up the big decision nothing's free, and it has put you in a prison can you pay the jailer

A wonderful servant yours to command grows to be master your life in his hand a beautiful lover, then the divorce coming down faster, each landing gets worse
