When i think of the times that i wished that i could have been you was i really frightened never turned a hair, playing the field like a king you were a diamond in a coalmine were you just living out that song and whose fault thaat you got it all wrong so falls the sungod as you were

Taking on the world somehow the world just knocked you over
taking on the world
we thought you were flying you were really dying... goodbye

It's so hard to go up to a friend when defences are down when he is a rival

were you just too proud to show us what we couldn't see only survival and a lifeline you could have used a helping hand you could have given me one chance to listen

Do you know you're grown up when you know you know nothing at all starting out from zero when you've watched your friend falling apart from inside you saw a hero not a falling angel if looks could kill you'd kill on sight when all the time you were freezing in sunlight
so falls the sungod as you were
