If I were tall enough, I'd look over my brother
My brother kicks some shit, salutes me like no other
And if for nothing else I really know my brother
If I were small enough I crawl up on my brother

I build a wall to protect myself
From any possible breakdown
So don't call me out to the playground
Downtown where I strut my sound
Big brother's gonna watch me

I build a wall to protect myself
From any possible breakdown
So don't call me out to the playground
Downtown where I strut my sound
Big brother's gonna watch me

If I were brave enough, I'd stand next to my brother
Shoulder to shoulder I would stand next to my brother
And if I fall apart he pull me by my shoulder
If I were tall enough, I'd crawl up on my brother

Bursting like a boil on the face of humanity
I need someone to lean on

So don't call me out to the playground
Downtown, where I strut my sound
Big brother's gonna watch me

So don't call me out to the playground
Downtown, where I strut my sound
Big brother's gonna watch me

I build a wall to protect myself
From any possible breakdown
You peel away the foreskin from my head
And laugh when I'm exposed

Come on

So don't call me out to the playground
Downtown, where I strut my sound

Big brother's gonna watch me

So don't call me out to the playground
Downtown, where I strut my sound
Big brother's gonna watch me
So don't call me out, so don't call me out

So don't call me out to the playground
Downtown, where I strut my sound
Big brother's gonna watch me
I build a wall to protect myself
From any possible breakdown
