"Let Me Love Again"

Look at us standing here like two strangers after all these years, face to face in a place we've never been don't know when I'll ever get over you, but I know this, if you can't stay, go away and let me love again

Unlock my heart, break these chains, give me strenght to hear your name, and not break down or think about what might have been, hold me close just once more then say goodbye and close the door,
if you can't stay go away and let me love again

Sometimes it's hard to admit that it's over, but it's over I know, so unlock my heart, break these chains, give me strength to say,
if you can't stay, go away and let me love again
