the years passed me by so many things i wanted to do somehow along the way i forgot about you, i forgot about you meet with weep and play meet with love and hate i didn't find the time now i hope it's not to late...

...it's not to late...

(ref)so can we be friends can we be friends
after all that we been through noone knows me like you do
can we be friends again
you can always count on me (always count on me)
always count on me
we will be friends

as i grow older i start to realize that lovers come and go but a friend is there for life (yes a friend is there for life) i come with open arms and eyes that wanna see somethings were ment to last like the times between you and me (tt's not too late)

(ref)so can we be friends again (can we be friends again)
always count on me
we will be friends forever i tried to make it on my own

(all by myself)
looking back i don't know why (i don't know why)

when there's someone to lean on (in these desperate times)

(ref)so can we be friends again (can we be friends
always count on me
we will be friends again
