I beg your pardon
but now it's harder than ever before I climb up the walls I feel so inferior called an artist when art won't stop this who burned every bridge and bounced all about but I always meant better

I pull apart every piece and call out the beast
It looms around it never roams
too far from home

I paid in dollars and credit powers
It came and it went but now it's all spent I thought that I'd be worth something

I pull apart every piece
and call out the beast
It looms around it never roams
too far from home

And hope's so hard to find when it gets in my mind and no, it won't improve so tell me what's the use if I'm gonna lose do and do and do....

hey ohh

I tell the story

it's rather boring repeat in my head the things that I said how could I be so awkward

and call out the beast
too far from home

and call out the beast
too far from home
