No one knows that I miss since you since you're not around
They can't see I'm still locked in your spell
Cause I wait till I'm alone to come unwound
This broken heart that you left I wear it well
When they speak of you is when I really shine
I just smile and say that name sure rings a bell
They don't even suspect that you were ever mine
This broken heart that you left I wear it well
[steel]
Many nights I barely make it to my lonely room
Before my tears tell the world I'm living still Then I spend another night inside my tomb
This broken heart that you left I wear it well
When they speak of you...
This broken heart that you left I wear it well
