SHUT DOWN, TURN OFF
WRITER GLENN SHORROCK

Turn off all life support systems, I'm finished for the day, I'm on the midnight flyer, and I've really got to get away. Shut down all your main engines, I'm going on reserve, there are things still undiscovered, oh I hope I've got the nerve. Shutdown turn off until the morning light, slow down splash down time to end the flight, make way dream time, here comes another night, I wish I could remember where I've been. I wanna talk to the pilot, he's in charge of my dreams, but he insists on vanishing, just as soon as he thinks he's been seen. I wanna recharge my batteries, leave me alone for awhile, we'll set off again in the morning on a wing and a prayer and a smile Shutdown turn off until the morning light, slow down splash down time to end the flight, make way dream time here comes another night, I wish I could remember where I've been. Where have I been ? Shutdown turn off until the morning light, slow down splash down time to end the flight, make way dream time, here comes another night, oh, I wish I could remember where I've been, oh ho. Shutdown turn off until the morning light, make way dream time, here comes another night, oh oh, oh oh ...
