Your mind's wandering while the man opens up the word
You're not here to worship; you came to come and not to serve
So whatever happened to that excitement in your heart
It seems that thought you've drifted just a little bit too far

Sometimes you live to make him proud But you've forgotten what it's all about

Don't let me fall away and fade out Let me hold onto the love you gave to me

I can't survive If I keep fading out Set me back and make me see What you've given me

Can you remember when songs were more than words?
Can you remember when in your heart you heard?
The Truth that echoes loud and once were all so clear
Are now so blurred and faint like His voice you will not hear.
