Today Iâ'm going back to the day
When I first called out to your name
Though times have been good
I know that I should be doing more than just wasting away

Youâ've baited your hook
With the mercy that you took
And poured out for me

Youâ're asking me back again
And consequently Iâ'll answer with a question With all that youâ've done, youâ've still been there for me
So, will you change my life again?

Look how you took this life that you shook

Into a battle I could finally win
Now itâ's so hard to faze me How your love is so amazing, that you died to take away my sins

You came down to us
And gave up your life
But you never gave up on me

Now Iâ've come to the time
When the doubt thatâ's attacking is seeming so sublime
But I still hear your voice, your still small voice
I still hear your voice.
