"Cold Coffee"

If it's too soon to say or tell You'll be looking for the fire, You'll be looking for the fire

Based on what you've seen so far
You know it's such a sad excuse for
A sense of security in me
Well this is all you'll ever see

Just give me some time and I'll get close to you There's a boy standing solo, there's a voice he'll never know
He's the boy with the words but the words
The words will never flow

If it's too late for me and you
Assumptions never get old, they just get me in trouble

So if you're feeling sorry for me
Take me out for a cup of coffee
Embrace the cold and all the snow
Cause that is all, you'll ever know

He's left out in the cold today
Footprints melt away
Burning air and piled snow
The temperature is ten below

Based on what you've seen so far
You know it's such a sad excuse for
A sense of security in me
Well this is all you'll ever see
