"How To Break Up"

You find so much wrong your love must be gone for thoughts are fickle when love is in You keep telling me to take it or leave those words are finally sinkin' in But how to break up without really crying I'll have to leave and that's for sure I know I'll be lonely without even trying but you don't love me anymore [steel]
For how true it is they say loneliness is worse than anything could be But then after you and what I've been through loneliness looks good to me But how to break up without really crying...
