You're back again and beggin' me once more to let you stay
Pick up our lines where we left off before you went away
I don't believe our love could be the way it was before
So thanks but no thanks I don't think I want you anymore
I can't forget my shattered heart the day I found you've gone
Somehow I picked those pieces up and made myself the one
You say you'd never hurt me now the way you hurt me then
Well thanks but no thanks I don't care to take the chance again
The promises you're making now are more than likely lies
The happiness you offer more heartache in the skies
So I lived well enough alone I'm fine the way I am
I couldn't ask my heart to go through all that pain again
And I'm all through forgiving you guess I've forgotten how
So thanks but no thanks it's all over I don't want you now
(So thanks but no thanks it's all over) I don't want you now
