

Liz Phair

"Beginning To See The Light"

Visit "Beginning To See The Light" on MotoLyrics.com

(performed during many of the April 1995 shows; featured on the Pottymouth Girl bootleg)
You want me home, but I'm gone all night
And we've probably been in some kind of fight
But if that's not real, and that's not right
And I'm beginning to see the light
Yes, I'm beginning to see the light
When all the stars up in Heaven were rushed by an angel
To see the light in your face better
And if God would only listen
He would surely create us
A hope of his everlasting grace
And I may be young, but I still know
The things you put down can rise from below

And I can hardly believe you would lay this at my door
'Cause I have heard that song before
Yes, I have heard that song before
When all the stars up in Heaven were rushed by an
angel
To see the light in your face better
And if God would only listen
He would surely create us
A hope of his everlasting grace
You want me home, but I'm gone all night
And we've probably been in some kind of fight
But if that's not real, and that's not right...
And I'm beginning to see the light
Yes, I'm beginning to see the light

Visit Liz Phair page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.