

Lloyd Cole & The Commotions "Patience"

Visit "Patience" on MotoLyrics.com

Early in the morning, just by the break of day
Well that's when my patience went away
She took her bags but she left all her clothes
She took her keys and left me out in the cold, wearing a plastic coat

And the pressures of life through lack of patience
I get the pressures of her
Patience is a girl that I hate to love the way I do, but I do

She wakes me up in the morning through squeaking in my dreams
She took her bags but she left all her clothes
She took her keys and left me out in the cold, all because of patience

I get the pressures of life through lack of patience
I get the pressures of her

She beat me up and left me out in the pouring rain
Without no keys, without no reason to go back again
She left me empty-handed, she left me empty-hearted Not no money, not nothing but the blues, all because of patience

I get the pressures of life through lack of patience
I get the pressures of her

She said the one thing that she needs is happiness
I don't believe that she's happy 'til she sees that I'm in distress
No, all because of patience

I get the pressures of life through lack of patience
I get the pressures of her and I swoon

Visit Lloyd Cole & The Commotions page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.