I lie awake and hear you breathing
I can't believe it's time to go
The day has come and now I'm leaving
I'm leaving a place that I called home

I wish that things could be different
And none of this would ever change
I never thought that I would leave you
And now these memories
Are all I have

Will you remember who I am?
Should I return not quite the same?
Will you hold on to what we used to be?
Until I turn to you again?

I wish that things could be different
And none of this would ever change
I never thought that I would leave you
And now these memories
Are all I have
Are all I have
Are all I have..
Are all I have
Yeah
Yeah

I wish that things could be different
And none of this would ever change
I never thought that I would leave you
But now these memories
Are all I have
Are all I have
