"Goodnight World"

Where's all that they fought for, and what was it they found? They say love is in the air tonight but I haven't seen it round. And how much longer will we act like we're stronger, when at the end of the day, it's goodnight world. And after all is said and done, the fantasy we're running from is really just a place we once called home. And all the answers we don't know, with the information told. My magic instigation wasn't privy to your soul. Yet deeply on the inside, you were born to be wild. My mind has constellations and I've spawned the reasons why. In a dawn of devastations, the warrior will sleep. And in those peaceful hours, it's goodnight world.
