Sunday's finally come
You'll open up your eyes to me
You know it's a magic thing
A man needs a woman like you

You bring all the morning light
Like the sun through the window pane
You clear up the cloudy skies
You're refreshing as a morning rain

And I don't want nobody
I don't want nobody but you
And if I need anybody
Darling, you're the one I would choose

I stumbled down Canyon Road
Just looking for I'm [Incomprehensible]
Every time I felt [Incomprehensible]
Then I heard a little word from above

Hold on, she's coming soon
Woman, you would change your whole life
And now that I have my choice
Well, I'm choosing you to be my wife

And I don't want nobody
I don't want nobody but you
And if I need anybody
Darling, you're the one I would choose

And I don't want nobody
I don't want nobody but you
And if I need anybody
Darling, you're the one I would choose

Nobody
I don't want nobody but you
And if I need anybody
Oh, darling, you're the one I would choose
