

Chris Cagle "Probably Just Time"

Visit "Probably Just Time" on MotoLyrics.com

The sun finally broke through and lifted the night
The sky never seemed so blue, so bright
It could have been whiskey, God knows I tried
Maybe just prayer, maybe just time
It's probably just time.

'Cause I didn't count on living this long
And being alright with the hurt being gone
It's probably just time to start moving on,
It's probably just time, it's probably just time, it's probably just time.

I can't count all the blessings for all the mistakes
And all life's little lessons learned a little too late.
It's just too much trouble to carry this weight,
All of these miles, all of this time
It's probably just time.

'Cause I didn't count on living this long
And being alright with the hurt being gone
It's probably just time to start moving on,
It's probably just time, it's probably just time, it's
probably just time.

It could have been the angels bringing me through
It could have been me finally getting over you
Finally getting over you.

'Cause I didn't count on living this long
And being alright with the hurt being gone
It's probably just time to start moving on,
It's probably just time, it's probably just time, it's
probably just time.
It's probably just time, it's probably just time.

Visit Chris Cagle page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.