Once upon a time, you wouldn't let me be
So deeply woven couldn't tell myself from me
I had no reason, not to give myself to you
You were so good, but now I see the, now I see the truth

You mislead me, wasted my time
I can see him, behind your eyes

You don't want me, you don't need me
You're just living to deceive me

What do you want me to be?
You treat me like a disease now
What do you want me to be?

Your fate has yet to come
Because this nightmare's just begun

If you hear me in the shadows, whispering your name
Would you hear my words without going insane?
Give me one reason so that I can justify
You took my life, this hell you can't deny

I can't trust you, we both know why
I can see through all of your lies

I'm abandoned, left here stranded
Now your fate has been commanded

What do you want me to be?
You treat me like a disease now
What do you want me to be?

What do you want me to be?
You treat me like a disease, now
What do you want me to be?

And it all comes down when I come down
And it hits the ground and we all fall down
It all comes down when I come down
And it hits the ground and we all fall

I can't stand [Incomprehensible]
And I feel I must now end her

What do you want me to be?
You treat me like a disease
What do you want me to be?

What do you want me to be?
You treat me like a disease now
What do you want me to be?

What do you want me to be?
You treat me like a disease now
What do you want me to be?

And it all comes down
And it hits the ground
When I come down
We all fall down
