I found you lying right there
Your body couldn't take more and you whispered "I don't care"
Rejected from safe haven, we make our own
So you breathe love, healing, and care

Remember when I held you for five days
Remember that those words made you shine brighter
Remember that the sun does shine on off days
And I love you

You threw away the methods of madness
And asked "What do I have now?"
Cause your looking at the mountain afraid of the top
When you should be climbing the foot hills and never wanna stop

Remember when I held you for five days
Remember that those words made you shine brighter
Remember that the sun does shine on off days
And I love you

We're just passerby's in this crowd of lies
Let me hold you dear, though I only know your name
Your stories mine, and will change others lives
So live, and please shine

Remember when I held you for five days
Remember that the pain goes away!

Remember when I held you for five days
Remember that those words made you shine brighter
Remember that the sun shines on off days
And I love you
