You love and learn, you learn to love
And you learn she's gone
Don't it hurt to love? It hurts to love
When you learn she's gone

Two cups of coffee at a table for one
I ordered for you, girl, now, I'm here on my own Old habits die hard, sometimes they hardly die at all I watch you play your favorite song again and again on your stereo

You love and learn, you learn to love
When you learn she's gone
Have you ever been hurt by love? Ever been hurt by love
Don't it hurt to love? It hurts to love
When you learn she's gone

I thought I knew you like the back of my hand
God, I must've been looking at the wrong one again Some nights I can't sleep 'cause you're not lying next to me
Till I see you there so vividly again and again in my every dream

You love and learn, you learn to love
When you learn she's gone
Have you ever been hurt by love? Ever been hurt by
love
Don't it hurt to love? It hurts to love
When you learn she's gone

I lived, I lived loving with you, girl
I was lucky to have you around
But now I find I was just a lone ranger out of my range
I was [Incomprehensible] that didn't get me any place

You love and learn, you learn to love
And you learn she's gone
Have you ever been hurt by love? Ever been hurt by
love
Don't it hurt to love? To learn to love

When you learn she's gone

Have you ever been hurt by love? Ever been hurt by
love

Don't it hurt to love? To learn to love
When you learn she's gone
