(bill labounty/chris waters)

I called about that conversation that I had with you last night

It must have been a combination of shooters and neon lights

And I didn't really mean to say

I've been losing it since you left

Yeah I may have said the words, but they came from somewhere else

It was just the tequila talkin'

When I told you I'm still not over you

I get a little sentimental when I've had one or two

And that tear in my eye was the salt and the lime

Not the memory of you walkin'

If I said I'm still in love with you

It was just the tequila talkin'

I don't know what they put in cuervo that got me to say those things

Usually I wouldn't care so much of make such a scene

But seeing you there in that dress you were wearing

Just drove me right out of my head

So don't hold me responsible for anything I might've said

It was just the tequila talkin'

When I told you I'm still not over you

I get a little sentimental when I've had one or two

And that tear in my eye was the salt and the lime

Not the memory of you walkin'

If I said I'm still in love with you

It was just the tequila talkin'

If I said I'm still in love with you

It was just the tequila talkin'
