We've all broken ground
Take one look around
We're in over our heads and we keep digging down
We've all broken ground

Makin' sure nobody sees the dirt on our face
That just would not come clean
And hoping that this is the day when everything changes

So we take one last breath as the walls cave right in Cover our heads as the weight of this world comes crashing down again
The last ray of light can no longer be found
With no point of reference to find our way out
Scream out loud
Does anyone know that we are, buried alive?

We all know the sound
We've been hunted down
And we all sing along from the moment we're found
We all know the sound

We take one last breath as the walls cave right in Cover our heads as the weight of this world comes
crashing down again
The last ray of light can no longer be found
With no point of reference to find our way out
Scream out loud
Does anyone know that we are, buried alive?
Buried alive, buried alive

Take one last breath as the walls cave right in
And we cover our heads as the weight of this world comes crashing down

We take one last breath as the walls cave right in Cover our heads as the weight of this world comes crashing down again, yeah
The last ray of light can no longer be found
With no point of reference to find our way out
Scream out loud

Does anyone know that we are, buried alive?
We scream out loud
Does anyone know that we are, yeah, buried alive, buried alive?
