an ending that's pretty a beautiful city to open the vein and take a hit i don't care if i break down tonight if i get out i don't care i'll take what i can get but if i get out it pulls me back again it comes on like a dream but now it's closing in i know what you want from me
i know what you want from me
i know what you want from me
when i'm standing at the end so quiet and happy so tired and laughing you know i don't see you every day and i've got wrinkles and black lines a colorful new life it really don't mean much anyway
but if i get out it pulls me back again exploding in a dream but now it's closing in

i know what you want from me
when i'm standing at the end so give me the white light give me the quiet life to bury my face and take it in if i get out it pulls me back again exploding in a dream but now it's closing
i know what you want from me
i know what you want from me
i know what you want from me when i'm standing
