

Lonnie Johnson

"Death Valley Is Just Half Way To My Home"

Visit "Death Valley Is Just Half Way To My Home" on MotoLyrics.com

Looked down that long old lonesome road
Looked down that long old lonesome road
My poor feet is gettin' tired, but still I've got to go

There's no train to my home town, ain't but the one way to go
There's no train to my home town, ain't but the one way
to go
That's mile after mile, trampin' that muddy road

It's just one thing, that worries me both night and day Ain't but one thing, that worries me both night and day There's a place they call Death Valley, and it's just halfway

You can't see a house, in twenty-five miles around I can't see nobody, goin' towards my ol' home town I've still got three hundred miles to go, and my poor feet is giving down

I can hear the wild cats and panthers, howl when the sun go down
Can you hear the wild cats and panthers, howlin' when the sun go down And I've got to go through Death Valley, to get to my old home town

I've been trampin' this lonely road, forty nights and days
My poor legs is gettin' tired, don't help me someways Cause I've got three hundred miles to go, trampin' in this mud and clay

Visit Lonnie Johnson page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.