So tired of sighin'.
So tired of cryin'.
I'm so tired of livin' all alone.

All my days seem weary.
The skies seem dreary.
And I'm all alone and where must I roam?

Although we have driftin' so far apart,
My arm may be empty, have not gived up in my heart.

I'm so tired of yearning,
For the long returnin'.
I'm so tired of livin' all alone.

Although we are driftin' so far apart,
My arms may be empty, have not gived up in my heart.

I'm so tired of yearning,
For the long returnin'.
I'm so tired of livin' all alone.

So tired of sighin'.
So tired of cryin'.
I'm so tired of livin' all alone.

My days seem weary.
All the skies seem dreary.
I'm all alone and where must I roam?

Although we are driftin' so far apart,
My arms may be empty, but never down in my heart.

I'm so tired of sighin'.
I'm so tired of cryin'.
I'm so tired of livin' all alone.
