

Lonnie Johnson

"South Bound Water"

Visit "South Bound Water" on MotoLyrics.com

I live down in the valley, people come from miles
around.

I live down in the valley, people come from miles
around.

There little homes was wiped away, they had to sleep
on the ground.

Through the dreadful nights I stood, no place to lay my
head.

Through the dreadful nights I stood, no place to lay my
head.

Water was above my knee, and the world had taken my bed.

I climbed up on the mountain, to find some place to
stay.

I climbed up on the mountain, to find some place to
stay.

Ah, the southbound water had washed my little valley
home away.

The water was rolling down the valley, just like a thunderstorm.

Water was rolling down the valley, just like a
thunderstorm.

Washed my little valley house away, there's no place I can call my home.

Visit Lonnie Johnson page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.