And the lights, are shining in the water
While the gray, it darts across the dark
And the red, is growing like a flower
While the eyes, they stare in black and white

Why don't you have, all of your friends come over?
To sit and watch, the fireworks explode
I'll keep my dancin' shoes on all the while Yeah I'll wear, that lampshade thin and proud

And we live, askew just like spiders
No we never stop or slow down
Crawling blind, all over each other
Crawling wild, all over this town

So open the door let everyone in tonight
They'll ruin the rug and steal all your things but it's alright
Yeah open the door let everyone in tonight
With wine-red teeth the room will start to spin but it's
alright

And all the while, we hunt just like tigers
All the while, we sleep in the dirt
All the while, becoming our fathers
All the while, we're coming up short

So open the door let everyone in tonight
They'll ruin the rug and steal all your things but it's
alright
Yeah open the door let everyone in tonight
With wine-red teeth the room will start to spin but it's
alright

But don't let the light hit
No don't let the light land
When everyone's in

But don't let the light hit
No don't let the light land
When everyone's in

I'm afraid I've never felt alive
I've spent too much time spent
I sit and dream of 1955
I've spent too much time spent
I've spent too much time spent
I've spent too much time spent
I've spent too much time spent
I've spent too much time spent
