The night was still young, she felt like a million bucks./
Leaving behind the pain and the building blocks/
Blockin' the sunshine mockin' the young minds duckin'
from one time/

To fly the nest and try the next./

Leave it all, set out on her private quest./

Not really sure what she lookin' for, but like:/

She knows that there must be more to life./

Too many things tryin' to control her life./

Like the career that she know ain't right,/

Or like the boyfriend that told her lies,/

Or her jealous friends. Yo it's only right/

That I'm gone tonight. I wasn't meant to be/

Trapped like this physically and mentally./

Only thing I'll miss a be my family,/

But I'm on the right path so don't cry for me Cus I'm:

Chorus

Lookin' for love,/ and you are - Lookin' for love./ We are all - Lookin' for love

One love, one aim - different name, different city./

Same old shitty pollution. This kid he sees no other solution/

But to leave with the last train./

He's tired of the fast lane and the acid rain./

The massive pain that we all feel at times,/

But nobody else understands when we feel it. Why?/

No sympathy, no empathy, no love in the city, no identities./

He went to sleep. When he awoke the next day/

Lookin' out the train window he sees he's halfway/

To the Promised land, and face to face with a young woman./

Ey, what's that song you hummin'?/

It's the new Looptroop - lookin' for love or something./

Oh, I ain't heard it yet. Is it hot? Yeah, bumpin'./

Can I hear it? Alright. Exchanging looks./

Listen, it's just coming up to the hook and I'm:

Chorus

The night was still young, their lives were still young,/

And who knows - they just might fulfil one/

And others' needs over this butter beat./

It's a bitter sweet little lovers' theme,/

Cus some find love around the corner./
Some never find it though they travel the four corners/
o
F the earth, but for what it's worth:/
I'm sure it's out there - I'll continue to search cus I'm:
Chorus
