Oh, how at the journey's end
I lie in the heat of the night
Feeling the heartache
Wondering why

I want a friend, I want a friend to lay down beside me
I want a friend, I want her now
Someone who knows
What I mean, when I say

That I need, tender hands to hold me
I need tender hands tonight
Will you lay them on my shoulders
Will you lay them on my eyes
And I need tender hands to take me
All the way to paradise
Then, when it's over I need tender hands
To hold me through the night

Touch me with your velvet mouth
I will give all the love that I have
Under the moonlight
Reaching your heart

Where are you now? Where are you now?
Come out of the shadows
Where are you now? I want you now
You know that I cannot always be strong

And I need, tender hands to hold me
I need tender hands tonight
Will you lay them on my shoulders
Will you lay them on my eyes
And I need tender hands to take me
All the way to paradise
Then, when it's over I need tender hands
To hold me through the night

I am only a voice in a city of noise
Can you hear me this time?
I see the storm grow
There's a light in the desert tonight

And I need tender hands
Give me tender hands
Will you lay them on my shoulders
Oh, give me, tender hands to take me
All the way to paradise
Then, when it's over I have tender hands
To hold you through the night, darling
My tender hands will hold you through the night

I want your tender hands
You have tender hands
I want those tender hands
