Some days I want to sail away, go find myself an open field lay back and take it easy, and see what nature has to yield

Some days I want to sail away, find myself some virgin land

Sing the songs of mountains, search my soul to understand

Some days I want to live again, look forward to the afternoon

Walk along the beaches, and imagine life that's on the moon

Some days I want to live again, though shadowed with uncertainty

how to last a lifetime with changes always new to me Chorus:

Id give up a dream, to be more in this life than a thought or a theme.

Some days I want to find a way, find a way to right a song

the lyrics would be so powerful to teach the children right from wrong

Some days I want to find a way to try and grasp eternity Although I might not understand the joy is in the journey

Some days I want to lend a hand . to make this world a better place to reach the need of others and help put a smile upon their face

Some days I want to lend a hand, to do my part for peace on earth

embrace all mankind lovingly and celebrate a re birth repeat chorus

Some days I want to sing a song sing a song for everyone and reach up towards the heavens, do my best to touch the sun

Some days I want to sing a song, I want you to sing with me

A mankind all in unison, I know that's how it supposed to be
