they say love is more precious then gold it cant be bought and it cant be sold well i got love enough to spare and that makes me a millionaire i got a woman with eyes that shine way down deep as a diamond mine shes my treasure so very rare shes made me a millionaire and when we ride round this old town in my beat up car with the windows down people look at her then they look at me they say that boy sure living in luxury

they say love is more precious then gold it cant be bought and it never could be sold and i got love enough to share that makes me a millionaire.

Her kisses fall from everywhere like riches of a millionaire so when my pockets are empty and my cupboard is bare i still feel like millionaire

they say love is more precious then gold
i got love enough to spare
