How fast can I run?
How far can I go?
These are the questions
The young want to know

I met her in Brooklyn
She was coming from a place
I said, "Where are you going to?"
She said, "Where have you been?"

'Cos I'm trapped in here, set me free
Take me down that last open road
Yeah, take me down that last open road
Yeah, take me down that last open road
Take me down that last open road

I know there's so much past this place
I see it smile on your jagged, ragged face
Something tells me, something strong
There's a world I've heard of, so before it's gone

Take me down that last open road
Take me down that last open road
Take me down that last open road
Take me down that last open road
Take me, take me
Take me down that last open road

Oh, I know there's so much past this place
I see it smile on your jagged, ragged face
Something tells me, something strong
There's a world I've heard of, so before it's gone

Take me down that last open road
Take me down that last open road
Take me down that last open road
Take me down that last open road

Take me down that last open road
Take me down that last open road
Take me down that last open road
