Never knew I'd feel like this, been crushed put down for so long
So cold inside my body broke like ice and everything faded away

It all started making sense when I looked into your eyes, everything would fade away

But did you know there's no one like you in the world?
all I ever see are those perfect eyes
And it's true hearts can beat so fast that they skip a beat
And it's true, oh it's true, and it's true that I love you.

If you were a season you'd be spring with every flower blossoming with the gentle breeze, If you were for me I wouldn't change a thing, all I need is you and nothing else matters

Everything started having meaning when I looked into your eyes, everything faded away

But did you know there's no one like you in the world?
all I ever see are those perfect eyes
And it's true hearts can beat so fast that they skip a
beat
And it's true, oh it's true, and it's true that I love you.

Love you, love you, I love you, I love you

Everything started having meaning when I looked into
your eyes, everything faded away
